Explosive Situation Simmering

Business Decline Blamed On Invasion Of Hippies

A potentially explosive situation is simmering along the 5000 block on Newport Avenue.

Fourteen businessmen have submitted a petition to the Ocean Beach Town Council requesting that organization for assistance in alleviating "the hippie situation" in the block.

Eight of the merchants, interviewed by The Sentinel, detailed charges that the hippies are hurting business, strewing trash and garbage, panhandling, insulting customers and keeping would-be customers away from the section.

Two bearded, long-haired adults who described themselves as spokesmen for the "hip movement," minimized the accusations and contended the "hippies" were being discriminated against.

"I'm not exaggerating. My business has dropped 75 percent because of them," declared one shop proprietor. "Good people are afraid to come down here and bring their children.

"Because of them, I owe two months rent. I wanted to close up, but my landlord talked me out of it. Also, you've never seen such panhandlers in your life. They stop just about everybody and beg for money."

He also charged that the "hippies" several times have applied human excrement to the door and windows of his shop.

"Sometime ago I placed two trash containers in front of my store for their convenience," he continued. "They would put trash in the containers, then dump the whole works in front of my store."

The proprietor of an adjacent store said he knows the "hippies" are hurting his business because he gets complaints from many of his customers.

"They insult my customers as they enter the store," he added. "They throw trash in the doorway and on the sidewalk. They sneer at you when you ask them to pick it up.

"It's a real nasty atmosphere. You walk along the street and they ask you for money.

"If you give them any guff, they throw trash and garbage in your doorway. I've heard 12 and 14-year-old kids along here using the most filthy language you've ever heard."

A restaurant owner said, "People don't want to come in here any more. Too many hippies. They ought to be put to work or run out of the city. They've cut my business at least 50 percent."

Another merchant claimed his patronage has declined at least 15 percent because of the "hippie situation."

"They lean against my building and make obscene remarks to the customers," he complained. "They eat their lunch or dinner out of sacks, then throw the remains in front of my place.

"I've been here more than 20 years, and never had trouble like this. Wait until next summer. You won't even be able to get on this block."

Another businessman said, "People think this is Haight-Asbury. It isn't, but they think it is. My business has gone down 25 percent, maybe more than that over a long term.

"They panhandle the people who live here and the tourists. Because of them, I have to sweep my sidewalk every day. There is a trash can out in front, but they won't use it."

One store owner declined to comment on the issue even though he was assured he wouldn't be quoted by name.

"I can't talk about it," he

fumed. "It brings me to the boiling point."

The other side of the story was presented by two members of the "hip movement." They are Wes Ford, 25, manager of the Paisley Pelican, a psychedelic shop at 5041 Newport Ave., and David White, 33, owner of The Odyssey, a "love shop" at 2223 Bacon St.

Regarding the merchants' charge that the "hippies" are hurting business, Ford declared, "In all honesty, I don't think there's much business to be ruined.

"They complain that hippies throw trash on the streets. I don't think they litter the streets any more than anyone else," he continued.

"I think the people of Ocean Beach are acting in a prejudicial manner. Hippies are a minority group and, just like any other minority group, we shouldn't be discriminated against.

"I grew up here and went to elementary and junior high school here, and I have just as much right to be a resident of Ocean Beach as anybody else.

"I'd like to tell the people who are complaining that any enmity being aroused here is only on their part. The hippies and young people in Ocean Beach are more than willing to cooperate with the establishment as long as we aren't expected to compromise our beliefs."

Last August Ford and two other employees of the Paisley Pelican were arrested by vice squad officers on a charge of selling obscene posters. Their trial is still pending.

White said merchants making the charges "are more involved in being disturbed with the effects, and not taking a close look at the cause.

"There is a definite communications gap whereby positive and achievable goals may be attained," he declared. "The lack of responsible coalition leadership in this town is why there is no effective social rapport between adults and youth.

"The mature and responsible people in this community should look towards bettering the communications and relations with youth, instead of alienating them further through forceful action.

"The youth want a voice of their own in the community."

The 14 businessmen's petition to the Town Council last week was referred to an ad hoc committee comprised of Ned Titlow, Mrs. Page Cummins, Spike Webb, Rev. Robert Fehlman and John Lewin.

The committee is scheduled to submit an interim report at the next meeting of the Council's board of directors.

THREE AGAINST LITTER—This energetic trio was among enthused participants who dumped 10 tons of rubbish on the parking lot at the foot of Santa Monica Avenue Saturday in the Peninsula rubbish roundup. They are Fred Jackson, (left), of 4968 Long Branch Ave., a member of the Ocean Beach Town Council; Mrs. Fran Hanks, Peninsula coordinator of the city-wide campaign, and Lester Hoffman, principal of Ocean Beach Elementary School. In all, Peninsulans deposited 20 tons of trash at three sites. The roundup will resume Saturday from 7 a.m. to noon. Dumping sites will be Barnard, Cabrillo, Dewey and Silver Gate Elementary Schools.

Agassiz Ends Long Voyage

The Scripps Institution of Oceanography research vessel, Alexander Agassiz, berthed Sunday at Scripps' Nimitz Marine Facility on San Diego Bay to end a 26,831-mile expedition to the Hawaiian, Samoan, and Society Islands.

The ship sailed from here last April 2. Since that time, Scripps scientists have been investigating the water characteristics, topography, and sediments in the Central Pacific; the past and present animal life on Mid-Pacific Mountain underwater seamounts and guyots, and the circulation around oceanic islands.

The expedition was designated Styx, which in Greek mythology was the deep, dark river surrounding Hades that was crossed by those entering the world of the dead.

The oceanographic connotation, however, is to a submarine river 80 to 100 miles wide, 200 miles long, and some three miles deep, flowing from the South to the North Pacific, between the Samoan and the Tuatoma Islands.

Scripps scientists reported that current meters placed on the ocean bottom showed this river flowing through a gap at about one third of a knot. The river is estimated to transport about four million tons of water per second, equivalent to 200 times as much water as the Mississippi carries.

The gap through which the river flows lies between the eastward - westward ridges separating the North and the South Pacific.

Jerry C. Horton Given New Rate

Jerry C. Horton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Orlo L. Horton, 4243 Orchard Ave., was promoted to Army sergeant recently while assigned to the 4th Infantry Division near Pleiku, Vietnam.

Sgt. Horton is a mortarman in Company E, 1st Battalion of the division's 12th Infantry. He entered the Army in June, 1967, completed basic training at Ft. Ord, Calif., and was last stationed at Ft. Polk, La., before arriving overseas in December, 1967. He holds the Combat Infantryman Badge. The 21-year-old soldier graduated in 1965 from Point Loma High School.

WO James Lyles Awarded Medal

Warrant Officer James F. Lyles was awarded a Navy Achievement Medal with Combat "V" at the Naval Training Center's Naval Administrative Command.

WO Lyles received the medal for "outstanding achievement of duties while serving with the U. S. Naval Support Activity, Saigon, from Sept. 27, 1967 to Aug. 2, 1968.

Shortly after Lyles' arrival in Vietnam, he completely revised and updated the reports control system, instituted procedures for effective follow-up action for correspondence and established training procedures for newly-reporting yeoman.

During the Viet Cong TET offensive, the warrant officer was instrumental in organizing and supervising the enlisted watch section to provide adequate protection and defense of the headquarters compound in Saigon.

Warrant Officer Lyles, the administrative assistant to the executive officer of the Administrative Command, reported aboard the Naval Training Center in November.

He is married to the former Betty M. Ragsdale of Baldwin Park, California, and they reside at 4311 Coronado Ave.

Rec Center

Extension Of Hours Deferred

The Peninsula Recreation Council, meeting Monday night, deferred action on a request that the Ocean Beach Recreation Center extend its hours to include Saturday night and Sunday afternoon.

The Ocean Beach Town Council's board of directors last week asked the Recreation unit to consider feasibility of the extension.

Stuart Harder, a district recreation supervisor, explained that funds were available to open the Rec Center four hours on Saturday night, or four hours on Sunday afternoon, but not on both days.

He also said there was a question as to whether additional personnel would be available for the extended hours. Existing staff members cannot be used, he said, because under such conditions they would be working seven days a week.

Mrs. Pauline Sneed was asked to submit the OBTC request in writing. Harder then will investigate the proposal further and give his recommendations at the Jan. 13 meeting of the Recreation Council.

William Owen Will Receive Hardy Award

The first annual Charles W. Hardy Memorial Award will be presented to William D. Owen today at 7 p.m. at a dinner to be held at the Atlantis Restaurant, 2595 Ingraham St.

Owen, 25, a lifeguard at La Jolla Shores, is being honored as "outstanding lifeguard of the year."

The Ocean Beach Town Council established the memorial prize and is sponsoring the dinner. Dick Thorpe, Council president, will present a plaque to Owen.

Beer License Is Opposed

An official of the state Alcoholic Beverage Control board Tuesday continued a hearing on an application for an on-sale beer-wine license at Pier 11, a restaurant at 5008 Newport Ave.

The applicants are James H. McCracken and Larry Pippin.

After listening to more than three hours of testimony, B. J. Showers, an ABC hearing officer, postponed action in the case until another session can be held, probably in February.

About 15 Ocean Beach residents opposed issuance of the license.

Saved From Fate

Use Found For Old Bath Tub

Some day, perhaps, a fiery-eyed candidate for a doctor's degree will write a thesis on the fate of discarded bathtubs.

Should this occur, Fran Hanks and her husband, Harold, will be assured a lofty perch in plumbing history.

This stirring saga began when Mrs. Hanks, who is executive director of the Ocean Beach Town Council, was named Peninsula coordinator for the city-wide rubbish roundup designed to beautify San Diego for the 200th Anniversary.

As their initial gesture, the Hanks' decided to contribute a five-foot bathtub they had discarded after remodeling their home.

RECEIVED CALL

In fact, they were all set to haul the tub to the dumping site at the foot of Santa Monica Avenue last Saturday when they received a telephone call from Robert Garrison, of 1741 Balance Rock Lane, El Cajon.

Garrison had learned of their intentions, and asked if he could have the tub. The Hanks' readily agreed.

So the bathtub was saved from the trash dump.

But don't get the idea the Garrisons will use it for bathing.

It now rests in their backyard, and is being used as a watering trough for their three horses, El Blanco, Bosco and Lady Bird.

Another story with a happy ending.

HOLY NIGHT, SILENT NIGHT

Old Carol Significant To Local Resident

By CHRISTY GREGG
Sentinel Staff Reporter

The reverent strains of "Holy Night, Silent Night" contain personal significance as well as religious connotations for Mrs. John Clark, a Peninsula resident.

It was her great, great, great grandfather, Franz Gruber, who wrote the music to the famous Christmas Carol 150 years ago in the Oberndorf Salsburg province of Austria.

A month-long celebration marking the sesquicentennial of "Stille Nacht, Heilege Nacht" is being held in Oberndorf.

Mrs. Clark and her brother, L. L. Henrick, of 1535 Linbrook Dr., are among American descendants of Gruber who have been invited to attend the historic event by the burgermeister of Oberndorf.

Mrs. Clark, a secretary in the audio-visual department at California Western, is unable to attend, but has fond hopes that her four children will be able to participate in a future commemoration.

She and her husband, a theater manager, reside at 1246 Savoy St. They are the parents of John, 21; Vicky, 20; Cindy, 18, and Randy, 9.

Her sister, Mrs. Eleanor McQuellon, of Peoria, Ill., will be on hand for the sesquicentennial.

The famous carol was first sung on Christmas Eve, 1818. The people of Oberndorf were preparing for the traditional Christmas Midnight Mass in the little church of St. Nicola.

None of the villagers was aware that the pastor, Father Mohr, had written the words to a poem after his return from the home of a county parishioner, where he had been called to bless a newly born baby.

MRS. JOHN CLARK

"He gave the words to his organist, Franz Gruber, to set to music," Mrs. Clark relates. "To provide the musical accompaniment, Gruber used the most common of instruments, the guitar.

"The story has been repeated by the villagers that it was a most wonderful night as the congregation gathered. Many of them walked down from the mountains with lantern in hand to guide them. Others came in sleighs drawn by horses.

"When the song was sung, it touched the hearts of the community. None of them realized that this song, written by their parish priest and organist, would become immortal."

A simple commemorative chapel was erected in Oberndorf in honor of the two men who composed the renowned carol. It stands on the same site as that occupied by the old St. Nicola church until 1905.

Mrs. Clark pointed out that many special programs have been planned for the sesquicentennial. There will be a "Silent Night" exhibition and a documentation on the composition of the carol.

Outstanding events will begin Dec. 21 with the official "Silent Night" celebration of Oberndorf. The following day there will be a concertante performance of the Silent Night Mass, and a play about the song will be presented Dec. 23.

Climaxing the 150th anniversary Dec. 24 will be a Franz Gruber memorial service, a jubilee celebration at the Silent Night Chapel and a ceremonial Christmas Mass in the parish church.

RESIDE IN ILLINOIS

Mrs. Clark said most of Gruber's descendants in the United States reside in the area of Mt. Sterling, Ill. A son of the composer, Herman Irvin Gruber, and his family settled in the area in 1850.

One of Herman's granddaughters, Louise, was the mother of Mrs. Clark's father, Leo C. Henrick, who still lives in Mt. Sterling. She will spend Christmas with her father and they will attend a special Mass, observing the sesquicentennial, at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Mt. Sterling.

The Clarks have resided in San Diego since 1941. They are members of Sacred Heart Catholic Church in Ocean Beach and all their children have attended Sacred Heart Academy.

ARTIST AT WORK—Caitlin Mitchell, 11, was wielding her brush right up to the deadline Saturday in the "paint a trash can" contest sponsored by the Beautify Ocean Beach Committee of the Ocean Beach Town Council. Caitlin, the daughter of Mrs. Jim Mitchell, of 5044 Niagara Ave., finished second in the junior division. First was Irene Strass, of 4941 Coronado Ave. Contest judging was on the basis of originality, use of color, and artistry.

Humane Shelter Seeking Puppies For Christmas

Each year the San Diego Humane Society does a tremendous business in placing puppies in homes as Christmas gifts. The society's shelter, located at 887 Sherman St., is ready to receive puppies now.

The big push usually comes the last week before Christmas, when parents come in to make their selection. In past years, by Christmas Eve, there is not a puppy or kitten on the shelter premises.

In fact, the day before Christmas at the shelter usually finds people snatching puppies away from each other in a last minute frantic attempt to get that cute little cuddly pet to put under the Christmas tree.

The Humane Society hopes that all people who have an excess of puppies will bring them to the shelter any time from now until Christmas.

Cake Decorating Slated For 200th Celebration

A birthday cake decorating contest will be held in Balboa Park Jan. 4 and 5 as part of the Five Day Opening ceremonies of the San Diego 200th Anniversary.

The Associates for Contemporary San Diego, coordinators of the Birthday Party in Balboa Park with the 200th, have planned a cake decorating contest as a feature attraction.

Mrs. Robert Satterford, co-chairman of the Cake Decorating contest with Mrs. Clinton D. McKinnon, said "the contest is open to any San Diego county resident, and there is no age limit."

"The cakes can be fake," Mrs. Satterford said, because only the decorations will be judged. However, cakes must not be more than two feet in diameter."

Categories for the Cake Decorating Contest include birthday cake decorations, and novelty cake decorations.

Entries must be brought to the Conference Building in Balboa Park on Friday, Jan. 3, before 3 p.m.

Persons interested in entering the contest should send a postcard with their name, address, telephone number, and the type of birthday cake decorations they plan to do to the San Diego 200th Anniversary, Inc., 635 "C" St., San Diego, 92112.

Winners of the contest will be announced Saturday, Jan. 4, and prizes will be awarded after the judging.

DO THEIR HOMEWORK

Students Work With Computer At CWU

United States International University may well become one of the first educational institutions in the land to require all its graduates to have a working knowledge of computers, if President William C. Rust's long-range computer plans for the University materialize.

Right now, for some seven seniors and two faculty members on the California Western campus of USIU who have just completed the first basic course in the use of computers, it's all happening in Room 301 of the Rohr Science Hall, where the University's first "computer terminal" has just been installed.

Here students can sit at a teletypewriter (a typewriter keyboard hooked into a telephone line) and communicate with General Electric's huge computer installation in Los Angeles, ask it questions, answer the questions it types back in return and wind up getting hours of homework done in a matter of minutes.

The idea of the University's using the $12-million GE facility on a time-sharing basis was the proposal of an advisory committee on computer planning. Headed by Earle Short, the group was formed of two sub-committees.

One was comprised of some of the community's top computer experts: Harry Goodell, Rohr Corporation; Donald Craig, Process Computing (subsidiary of Cubic); Donald Pardee, Convair and Jim Saxon, NEL. These men were familiar with systems analysis equipment and the over-all use of computers.

The other committee was an academic one made up of USIU faculty members headed by Dr. John D. Hopperton, Associate Professor of Chemistry. Its purpose was to make a study of methods for introducing the computer to all USIU students.

"Access to a computer," said Dr. Hopperton, "is the first big step. Now basic computer language is to be taught as part of the regular chemistry course. Beginning in the spring quarter, every freshman taking Natural Science will receive computer training."

Dr. Hopperton's idea is that all freshmen be exposed to basic computer programming. He said it was the University's goal for every graduating student to have gained some knowledge of the computer, its advantages as well as its limitations.

The important factor in the broad applicaion of time-sharing is the development of a simple language or set of commands the individual can give the computer to set up a problem-solving situation. "The GE computer was chosen because of its simple language," Dr. Hopperton said. "The computer is programmed so that anyone with a sixth-grade intelligence can use it to advantage."

The computer is available to Cal Western students weekdays from 6 p.m. to midnight and all day Saturday and Sunday. Students work out problems during the day which they then feed to the machine at night.

Once the computer has been programmed, it can return a batch of answers in a matter of minutes. One student using the computer reports it took only 15 minutes to work out a problem, where previously it had taken him eight hours to solve a comparable one.

"Professors will now be now be able to cover two or three times as much ground with their classes," said Hopperton, "because the computer takes the drudgery out of homework."

Future plans call for additional terminals both at Cal Western and USIU's Elliott campus.

President Rust hopes eventually they can be placed in residence halls and professors' homes, "to become as common as the electric typewriter."

They reported gifts of $121,632, as compared with receipts of $115,338 at the same time last year. Last year's grad total was $190,488, a figure they hope to improve upon. They said Christmas Seal contributions help fight tuberculosis and other respiratory diseases with 83.5 per cent being used locally while 16.5 per cent goes to the state and national tuberculosis associations for research purposes and development of tools for use on the local level.

Of Go-Carts, Mini-Bikes

Parents Warned About Liabilities, Dangers

"Be sure you'll have a place to operate your mini-bike or go-cart legally before you buy it. Lawful operation of any motor vehicle on any public street requires a licensed driver and a registered vehicle," Capt. Roland Gautsche of the California Highway Patrol warns parents who are preparing Christmas gift lists.

Mini-bikes are so light and small, with scooter-sized wheels and low horsepower, that some people don't realize they are legally classified as motor vehices, he said. As such they must meet all the equipment requirements contained in the vehicle code in addition to being registered with the Department of Motor Vehicles and operated by a licensed driver in order to be used on any public street, including the sidewalk.

The same requirements apply to go-carts, the low-slung miniature cars sometimes used for parking lot races, if they are to be operated on streets or highways.

Capt. Gautsche also pointed out that it is unlawful to operate a motor vehicle in school yards, posted hiking, or riding trails, on sidewalks, and on the grounds of any state, county or municipal institution, without authorization of the governing board.

"That's why we strongly advise knowing in advance where a non-registered vehicle will be used before purchasing it. The owner of the vehicle (the parent) is held responsible under the law for the legal operation of the vehicle. If he doesn't plan ahead, he'll have a similar problem to the one facing a parent who gives a BB gun or a small rifle to a child living in a big city which prohibits shooting. He's asking for trouble!"

Capt. Gautsche noted that any civil liability of a minor, whether licensed or not, arising out of his driving a motor vehcle on a public road with the expressed or implied permission of his parents, is imposed upon the parents. The parents are jointly liable with the minor for any damages resulting from any negligent or wrongful act of the minor while driving.

Additionally, a criminal liability is involved. The Vehicle Code forbids anyone knowingly to permit his child under the age of 21 years to drive upon the highways unless the child is licensed.

It is also unlawful for the owner to permit the operation of any vehicle that is not registered.

"But more important than the civil and criminal liabilities involved is the physical hazard to the child," Capt. Gautsche said.

"Because of the small size of the vehicle and the youngster, and because of the child's lack of knowledge of traffic perils, if a mini-bike or go-cart is ever hit by a car, the child is almost invariably injured seriously, if not killed."

Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Relations between the President and President-elect, hitherto more cordial than between any other incoming and outgoing Presidents, were disrupted when Nixon moved in on the question of continuing Chief Justice Earl Warren without any consultation whatsoever with Johnson.

Nixon's move had the earmarks of a quick double-play to block the interim appointment of former Justice Arthur Goldberg as Chief Justice.

Drew Pearson

Jack Anderson

President Johnson has on his desk right now the resignation of Chief Justice Warren subject to action at any time. He can and still may act on it right up until noon of Jan. 20. And he had been debating such action when out of the clear blue, the Presdent-elect phoned Chief Justice Warren asking him to remain as head of the court until June.

Obviously it was not Nixon's prerogative to do this and, furthermore, both protocol and courtesy required him to call the President in advance of his request to Warren. Johnson has leaned over backward to clear with Nixon all questions of policy which affect the country during his interim period.

He cleared with Nixon beforehand the relatively minor matter of the invitation which Secretary of State Rusk conveyed to the NATO foreign ministers in Brussels to attend a NATO 20th anniversary in Washington next September.

He also has taken up with Nixon every detail of the Paris talks, and instructed Averell Harriman to call on the President-elect to fill him in further. No steps has been taken in the Vietnam negotiations without informing Nixon.

he President also informed the President-elect in some detail regarding his talks with Premier Kosygin and his hopes to have one final conference. He even invited Mr. Nixon to accompany him to Europe, if the talks are finally held.

No President in half a century has been more cooperative toward the new administration, even ordering 17 State Department rooms placed at Nixon's disposal, 48 hours after the election—rooms which are still largely unoccupied.

HEADING OFF GOLDBERG

Because of this there is some belief that Nixon caHed the Chief Justice deliberately in order to head off the President's plan to appoint former Justice Arthur Goldberg as Chief Justice. Mr. Johnson had been considering this idea ever since his nomination of Justice Abe Fortas to be Chief Justice was turned down by the Senate. He was not unmindful of the fact that as early as last July, Chief Justice Warren, when asked by the President whom should he appoint as his successor, at first declined to propose a successor, later had discreetly pointed out that the Middle West had no representation on the court and that former Justice Arthur Goldberg, who comes from Chicago, would make a great Chief Justice.

While the President put his old friend, Justice Fortas on his list, he did not forget Goldberg. Justice Goldberg had served as Secretary of Labor in the Kennedy Cabinet, then on the Supreme Court, then agreed to resign to tackle the tough problems of Vietnam peace at the U.N.

In the course of considering Goldberg's nomination as Chief Justice, he mentionad it to Nixon during their November luncheon. The appointment was delayed chiefly because the President was seriously considering calling the Senate into special session to act upon the Nonproliferation Nuclear Pact, at which time he planned to ask for Goldberg's confirmation as Chief Justice.

Meanwhile several high-ranking Republicans had urged Nixon to go along with Goldberg's appointment, including former Attorney General Herbert Brownell and Max Fischer of Detroit, one of the biggest money raisers for the Nixon campaign.

It was against this background that the President-elect put in his private call to Chief Justice Warren.

The Chief Justice, who has been on the opposite sides on the Republican fence from Nixon, was caught by surprise. Nixon had sabotaged Warren's bid for the Presidency in 1952 at the Chicago GOP convention. The two have not been cordial since.

So when the Chief Justice got the call from the President-elect asking him both to administer the oath of office and also continue until June, he acquiesced without realizing that it was President Johnson, not Nixon, who still had the decision to accept his resignation at any time up to Jan. 20. Nor did the Chief Justice realize that Arthur Goldberg, the man he very much wanted to be his successor, was on the verge of getting an interim appointment as Chief Justice.

THAILAND REPEATS MISTAKES

Even as the Paris peacemakers are negotiating a possible end to the Vietnam war, Asiatic communists have started a new, Vietnam-style insurrection against Thailand. They are repeating there the same tactics that plunged South Vietnam into a bloodbath.

Unhappily, the United States with 45,000 troops already scattered throughout Thailand is also repeating some of the mistakes of Vietnam.

This embryonic revolution is the classic model, which has become the principal communist export in Asia. Two main thrusts are aimed at the neck and heart of Northern Thailand.

The Red Chinese are stirring up the mountain tribesmen who inhabit the neck-land. These tribesmen feel no allegiance to Thailand, and roam freely across the junglechoked border with Laos. Lately, they have been returning with Russian-made assault rifles and revolutionary Mao thoughts.

At the same time, North Vietnam has been slipping infiltrators into the northeastern heartland, which is occupied largely by Vietnamese. Col. Witt Nimnaun, governor of Nong Khai, has estimated that more than 95 per cent of the 10,000 Vietnamese refugees in his province are pro-Hanoi.

The infiltration is directed by the North Vietnamese embassy across the Mekong river in Vientiane, the Loation capital.

Just as the end of the Korean war allowed China to concentrate its efforts in Indo-China, the relaxation of military pressures in Vietnam has caused an increase in guerrilla activity in Thailand. Weapons intended for Vietnam already are being diverted to Thailand from communist depots in the Southern Chinese province of Yunnan.

An underground radio, which calls itself the "Voice of the People of Thailand," also broadcasts out of Yunnan. The propaganda is merely an echo of the harangues head in South Vietnam; only the language is different.

"BIG, BAD UNCLE SAM"

The guerrilla tactics of propagandizing the villages and slaughtering government sympathizers are also familiar. And the communists' favorite whipping boy is the same—big, bad Uncle Sam, whose military presence has already rubbed a few raw sores.

As in Vietnam, the United States is supporting a military government and extending it unlimited aid. This has produced some of the same corrupton and inflation that resulted from the outpouring of aid to South Vietnam. The King of Thailand is one of the wealthiest monarchs in the world and there is a great chasm between the military oligarchy and the masses.

The U.S. Army also turns GIs loose in Bangkok for rest, recreation and romance. Their free spending and whirlwind courtship of pretty Thai girls chafes many young Thai men. Similar resentments finally forced the army to withdraw all but "essential" troops out of Saigon.

The Thai troops who have been sent into the mountain jungles to fight the hit-and-run guerrillas are also unacquainted with the people and unfamiliar with the terrain. On these thick, green battlefields, the parallels to Vietnam are easily drawn.

Yet not all the mistakes of Vietnam are being repeated in Thailand. We have taken pains, for instance, to avoid any direct American involvement in Thailand's brewing insurgency. We have persuaded the Thais that this is their war, and they must fight it themselves with their own men.

U. S. equipment and U. S. training are being used, but the men carrying the guns are Thais. Americans are training Thai border patrols and counter-insurgency units. But the Americans positively do not accompany the Thais into battle. Indeed, no Americans are assigned to Thai units below the battalion level.

Neither the Army nor the CIA are permitted in Thailand to operate their own counter-insurgency outfits. There are no special forces, no Green Berets.

Most of the 45,000 American troops in Thailand are engaged in the Vietnam war effort. Only a comparative handful are training Thai army and border-patrol units.

The huge U. S. military presence, however, is both a deterrent to front-door Chinese aggression and an invitation to back-door infiltration. For U. S. military activity in Thailand is grist for the communist propaganda mill.

When the American involvement in South Vietnam was about the same scale as the present involvement in Thailand in the 1950s, then-Vice President Nixon urged a military escalation. It remains to be seen what President-elect Nixon will do about Thailand.

COMPUTER'S MISTAKES

Computerized voting, used for the first time in the last election, fell flat on its face in Southern California and Oregon and could lead to the election of Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., on a recount.

What happened was that IBM punchboard ballots were accidentally misused by many voters. Furthermore, when IBM ballots were run through computers to get a count, some of the computers were badly programmed.

As part of the new IBM balloting, cities or states buy a computer for $80,000. The computer can almost be programmed to elect Mickey Mouse for President. As a result, some counties in Southern California which for years had been voting 70 to 80 per cent Democratic, this time were recorded as voting for Nixon. Likewise counties which had been Republican for years, this time were counted for Humphrey. Only explanation was bad programming with the computers.

In Oregon, 10 per cent of the punchboard ballots were thrown out because voters, not understanding the new system, made mistakes. Some tried to change their minds, punched two candidates. These are all being reviewed in Sen. Morse's recount. In Los Angeles there were heavy voting mistakes in the Negro and Mexican districts which ordinarily would have been for Humphrey. In Oregon this was true in lower-class voting districts which would have gone for Morse.

In Dallas, Tex., which used IBM cards for the first time, 16 per cent of the ballots were thrown out because of mistakes.

All in all a lot of candidates wished that voting districts had stuck with the lever-type voting machines.

Reader's Views

Editor:

On every hand we are being exhorted to save our plighted cities—to solve the urban crisis — to revitalize our dying cities.

What we seem to be experiencing in these past months, is the "soft sell" stage of a determined and deliberate campaign to place the federal bureaucracy in control of our nation's cities.

This initial phase of heart-rending appeals in the national mass media for "help" in alleviating the suffering and plight of our poor but anonymous cities will be followed soon, it seems, by Big Brother's "You better do as we say — OR ELSE!" The threatening or intimidation stage.

It may be already later than we think for the decline and fall of local government. One of our San Diego newspapers recently quoted Secretary Cohen of Health, Education and Welfare as stating, "If you want to retain state and local governments, you will have to do a better job."

Last week in another newspaper, John Gardner head of the National Urban Coalition warned, ". . . that if local people are unable to take care of local urban problems, the federal government will step in and take over." Mr. Gardener, went on to say, "Even now, there is serious talk in Washington of a federal Czar in every city."

Serious talk in Washington! How about some serious talk in San Diego? Even if just a few Letters to the Editor from those who would prefer to have our local City Council and our local taxes take care of our local problems.

Should this trend of looking to federal officials and the federal funds they disburse to solve our local problems prove inexorable, and San Diego be forced to accept a Washington appointed "Czar" to run the city, let's disband the figurehead Council and drop the pretense of local elections. For then, these political anachronisms would only be a constant reminder and a cruel mockery of our inability or unwillingness to govern and to tax ourselves.

Disaster Office Swamped With Earthquake Calls

Earthquake questions are swamping the Unified San Diego County Disaster Office according to William Marty head of the countywide civil defense program. "Recent predictions about when earthquakes may hit California may be the reason for so many calls," he said.

"No one can predict when a fault in the earth's crust will generate an earthquake that could cause significant damage and perhaps human injuries in the populous areas of California. But, there are three rules that should be followed during an earthquake."

First, if you are indoors, stay indoors and get under a desk, table, or doorway, but do not run outdoors. Second, if outdoors then get away from buildings, utility poles and walls. Third, do not turn off utilities except when you are positive that lines are broken. Marty stressed the advire about not turning off utilities.

Major effects of an earthquake last ony seconds to a few minutes. There are faults in San Diego County, but these are not as active as major faults in other areas of California" said Marty who has charge of planning for disaster preparedness and recovery by the county disaster office at Gillespie Field.

FOR MINORITY APPOINTMENT

Walsh Hits Media On Pressuring Council

Councilman Jack Walsh, who announced his resignation from the City Council yesterday, took a parting blast at local news media for editorial pressures brought on the council to appoint a member of a minority race to one of the three seats to be vacated on the council.

Walsh told a City Hall press conference that "certain elements of the news media by speaking out on how the vacancies should be filled have performed a great disservice to the council, the community, and especially the minority community."

Sudden Concern

Walsh said the "sudden concern of publicly announcing the council should consider minority appointments for certain districts is an insult to the intelligence and integrity of the council.

"The council I am proud to say," Walsh said, has led, and I emphasize led, San Diego through the greatest period of development and growth San Diego has seen in its history.

"The caliber of my colleagues participating in this growth has been of the highest level. The remaining members of the council in filling the vacancies are well aware of the needs for minority (at least 20 per cent of our total population) representation on the City Council."

Walsh said that "certain elements" of the media by continually playing up the need for a minority person "will considerably lessen the impact of a probable action that the council is well-leaning towards."

Will Bring Label

Walsh said that because of all the media pressure appointment of a minority person "will bring the label to the council of having acted under the pressure of the establishment and will to many in the community brand the appointee with the label of being appointed because of his color and not his qualifications."

Walsh questioned whether "the same editorial influence would have been exercised and the statements made in favor of a minority candidate had there been an election.

"This practice of supporting a qualified minority in a representative district has been noticeably absent in this community in past elections.

"Why were the voices so silent, or took the opposite viewpoint in such important issues concerning minorities such as funding C.I.C., appointment of minorities to the rank of sergeant in the Police Department, and in the question of open housing?"

Probable Action

Said Walsh, "The present action of certain segments of the media in endorsing what is a probable action of the council reminds me of a man walking down Broadway and seeing a parade in motion.

"He runs in front of the parade and continues down the street. He then proceeds to extoll his own importance by telling all of his friends how he was the leader of the recent parade in downtown San Diego."

Lukasky of 990 Yacht Harbor, was advanced to his present rate while serving aboard the destroyer tender USS Samuel Gompers in the Western Pacific. His ship is operating with the U.S. Seventh Fleet.

Around the Point

By NANCY STEVENSON and GLORIA KELLER

It's only two weeks until that blessed vacation of all—Christmas. And of course the season brings with it the spirit of giving.

Everyone is happy, too, because there is a two week vacation coming up . . . Seniors aren't looking that far ahead, though. Most of them just got through taking the Constitution test for graduation requirements. And those enrolled in Political Science have a big mid-term coming up two days before vacation.

Quite a few students are taking advantage of the Christmas rush and are working frantically at the many stores around town earning a lot of money. Candy Blackford, Lisa Stotsky, Janet Wolff, and Jeannie Keefer are just a few. Stop in anywhere around the area, and you'll find someone from PL working there.

The Point Loma basketball team has started out their season on a winning streak. Having won three straight games, they are now ranked number six in the city-wide polls. Outstanding players are Rick Gerding, Mike Cote, Jim Evans, and Doug Luther. Juniors Nick Thomas and Martin Forbes also look like they're going to have outstanding seasons.

Sophomore elections were held last week, and more than expected turned out to vote for their classmates. Patty Gaber is president; Minnie Waterman, vice president; Nancy Boyce, secretary; Lowell Siwundhla, treasurer, and Sally Hager, historian. We hope that this enthusiasm is just a beginning for a very spirited class in the coming years.

Point Loma's Girl's League presents its annual fashion show tomorrow in the boys' gym. Some models are Jill Buckingham, Valerie Clark, Miriam Frausto, Kim Hill, Debbie Sikes, and Sue Thompson. Good grooming awards will be presented to each class. Clothes to be modeled are from the Etcetera Shop in Mission Valley.

Highlights and Countesses, two service clubs at PL are currently busy planning teas for the Christmas season. Countesses will hold their alumnae tea at Katie Bea Lazar's house Sunday while Highlights holds theirs after Christmas. Both clubs are busy helping needy children with gifts for Christmas.

Point Loma's cross country team took a second in the CIF finals for the third year in a row. Runners Chuck Dyer, Dave Hull, Bob Brenner, and Jon Freyer, and Tim Shaffer, and Stuart Williams ran the team to fame this year.

Wednesday night the Moody Blues and Spirit played at the Grossmont College Gym. Seen at the concert were Jenny Ekern and Eileen Schwartz.

Candy and Chris Nickols spent their holiday weekend with their grandparents in Carmel while Vicky and Christy Baker spent theirs in Idylwild . . . Kim Hill and her father spent a day hunting for quail in Tecote . . . Debbie Sikes spent her weekend in Santa Barbara where shegot to know the UC campus located there.

Abernethy To Retire On Jan. 24

A Peninsula judge, Roland Abernethy of 614 San Gorgonio St., will retire from the Superior Court bench Jan. 24 after 20 years of service on both the Municipal and Superior Court levels.

Abernethy's retirement will make room for the fifth new appointment to Superior Court in less than one year.

Abernethy entered the legal profession in 1931 after taking his law degree from Southwestern University. He spent the following 11 years in private practice in Pasadena.

He left private practice in 1942 to take over the San Diego branch of the U. S. Attorney's office. He spent two years there before joining the San Diego County District attorney's office where he served from 1944 up to the time of his judicial appointment in 1949.

He has served as president of the San Diego County Heart Association, the San Diego Salvation Army Advisory Board, the Francis Parker School Board and the Fathers Council of the Bishop's School.

He is also a member of the San Diego Rotary Club, the Masonic Lodge, Scottish Rite Bodies, Al Bahr Shrine, the Fine Arts Society and the Maritime Museum Association.
